

2020 CENSUS PROFILE

Leavenworth County, Kansas

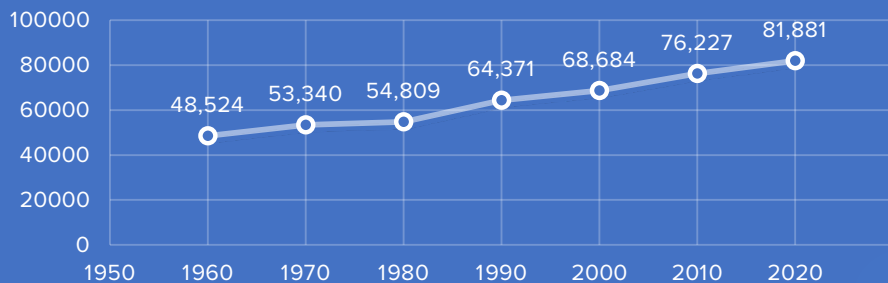

In 2020, Leavenworth County, Kansas, was the seventh most populous county in the nine-county MARC Region with 81,881 persons. Experiencing modest, but steady growth since 1960, the county represented approximately 4% of the region's total residents.

Leavenworth County's added 5,654 persons during the decade. This was due to both a natural increase (births over deaths) of 3,548 residents and a net in-migration of 2,106 persons.

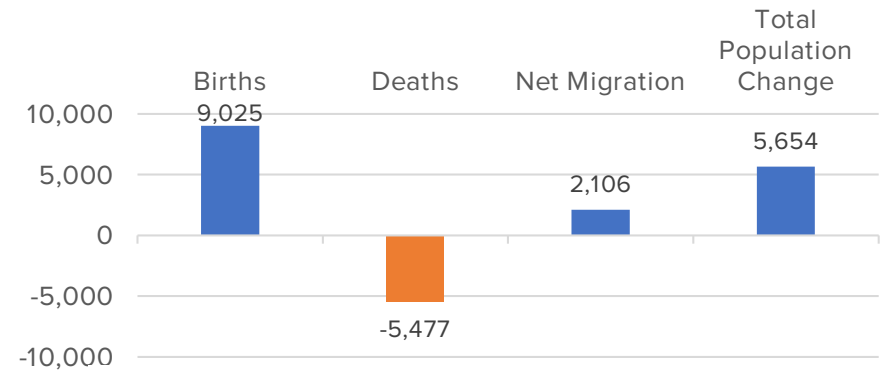

Population change by race and ethnicity mirrors the region's trend with most (71%) of the county's growth due to increases in persons of color. Persons of color saw their share of the county's population increase from 20% in 2010 to 24% in 2020.

The largest increases in population by race and ethnicity were experienced by individuals identifying as two or more races, Hispanic, and white alone. The Black population experienced a slight decrease over the past decade.
