 - Discussion questions:
 - i. What policy changes do you see as the low-hanging fruit for improving roadway safety?
 1. Examples: stricter safety standards for manufacturers, higher gas taxes and/or weight-based fees, transportation-oriented development, better public transit
 - ii. Many roadway safety efforts still focus on seatbelt use and distracted driving. Is there enough of a focus on vulnerable road users (such as bikers and walkers)? If not, how could we change that?
 - iii. Should we rely on technological improvements in new vehicles to improve safety on our road? Why/why not?
